

QUIZ SUSPECTS IN PAYROLL MURDER

LONDON DATA KEPT SECRET

DOCUMENTS DENIED BORAH UPON HOOVER ADVICE IS CLAIMED

Silence Prevailing Among Opponents Of Treaty

WASHINGTON, June 7.—An ominous silence prevailed today among senate opponents of the naval treaty concerning Secretary of State Stimson's refusal to submit to Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, the secret documents and data on the London conference.

Stimson flatly refused to give the committee what Senator Johnson (R) California, wanted but sent along data concerning the Geneva conference of 1927 and some selected secret data he considered not harmful.

Acting under instruction of President Hoover, Stimson based his refusal on a fear that distrust of the United States might be engendered among the powers in future conferences if the "confidences" at London were disclosed.

It would be incompatible with the public interest, Hoover has decided, he said.

Stimson assured Borah that there were no secret commitments, nor understandings, and that the treaty would have to speak for itself.

"There have been no concealed understandings in this matter," Stimson told Borah, "nor are there any commitments whatever except as appear in the treaty itself and the interpretive exchange of notes recently suggested by your committee, all of which now are in the hands of the senate."

In a formal press statement Stimson characterized as "non-sense" charges that there were secret understandings.

He bolstered his refusal with precedents established by president Washington, and cited President Harding's refusal to give the senate secret data bearing on the negotiation of the Washington arms conference in 1922, as being "incompatible with the public interest."

Pointing out that the London conference was only one step toward disarmament, Stimson said it is especially important that the reputation of the American name for integrity and reliability shall be scrupulously observed."

FIREMAN STAMPS OUT FUSE OF BOMB

CHICAGO, June 7.—Fireman John Kilroy proved himself a hero today when he trampled on the sputtering fuse of a lighted bomb and kicked it into the street, thus saving the Alpine Restaurant from possible destruction.

When told there was a package sizzling in the doorway of the restaurant Kilroy investigated and found a white bundle against the front door. Seeing a burning fuse protruding from the package he ground it beneath his heel and hurled the package into the street.

The police bomb squad found the package contained four sticks of dynamite wrapped with wire.

AUTOIST KILLED

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 7.—Joseph T. Reynolds, 21, of Lowell, Mass., was killed and Catherine McGuire, of Lowell and Abigail York, of Olean, N. Y., were seriously injured early today when an automobile in which they were returning here from a prom at Niagara University, crashed into a telephone pole and overturned.

Reynolds was a student at Georgetown University, Washington. The girls are students at Dyouville College here.

UMBRELLA LETHAL WEAPON

CHICAGO, June 7.—A man, hurrying along through the rain early today, lowered his umbrella suddenly as an apparently drunken man lurched toward him. The tip of the umbrella struck the lurking man in the chest, and he staggered on.

The workman hurried on. Twenty feet farther along the lurking man collapsed in front of a restaurant. When employees of the restaurant reached his side, he was dead. The pointed umbrella tip had inflicted a fatal wound, just above the heart.

The other man walked on, apparently unaware that the umbrella had wounded the victim.

The body was taken to the county morgue.

Heart-broken Mother Sobs Over Body Of Daughter Who Became Gangster's "Moll"

NEW YORK, June 7.—"She was so good, so thoughtful towards me—surely my Anna didn't turn out this way."

Thus sobbed a grey-haired mother as she was asked to identify her "own little girl," as Anna Urbas—the same woman police knew as a hard-boiled gangland queen.

Mrs. Margaret Urbas, gentle, unworldly mother of the flashing gunman's "Moll," could not believe that it was her own daughter police had identified as the murdered woman who knew and told too much of gang life.

In the bleak surroundings of the city morgue, she listened in horror to the report made to her by police.

They told her Anna Margaret Urbas was a gunman's "Moll," a queen of the underworld, and that she had been bound with copper wire, weighted with iron and flung still breathing into the Harlem River to keep her from telling incriminating truths.

And the small, eminently respectable woman with a sweet, intelligent face who had lived most of her life in a West Virginia village stared wide eyed and horror stricken at the thought.

"How could she have done such things?" she said. "Why didn't she tell us about it? Why didn't she tell her sisters if she didn't want to tell me or her father? We never dreamed of such a thing. Anna always said she was doing well when she came to see us. She never mentioned any men to us. We thought she was working, as she did when she first went to New York."

If during those last days when she knew swift, silent death awaited her at any turn Anna wrote her mother a letter naming the man who would kill her as she told Eugene Moran's father she had, her mother never received it. She was unable to tell the police anything about such a letter.

"Had I received such a letter of course I would have gotten in touch with the police right away," she explained.

Mrs. Urbas is a stoical mother. She has not wept much despite the ordeal through which she has had to go.

She has born nine children, three of whom died in infancy. She sighs and says:

"It is hard to have this happen. No one knows how hard it is.

Dougherty Family Splits Over Epsom Derby Prize

Pa Threatens Legal Action To Obtain Money From Son

QUEBEC, June 7.—Hostilities were renewed today by the battling Dougherty family of Brooklyn, N. Y., for possession of the $149,262 Epsom Derby prize.

The flag of truce was hauled down when Edward Patrick Dougherty, 19, in whose name the ticket was registered, obtained the check from the Quebec Army and Navy Veterans' headquarters. "Eddie" evidently believed that possession was nine points of the law.

Eddie, a clerk in a Wall Street firm, had come to Quebec, accompanied by his father, Daniel Dougherty, Sr., a Brooklyn apartment house doorman, and his brother, Daniel, Jr., and a retinue of advisors. Eddie has been amazed that so many are interested in him since he won the derby prize.

Originally, the elder Dougherty claimed the $149,000. In some way that brother "Danny" was cut in. After no end of wrangling father and the two sons agreed to split the money three ways, and they headed for Quebec to get the check.

Dougherty, Sr., roared indignation when he learned Eddie had stolen a march on him, had obtained the check and had started for a bank to deposit it in his own name.

"Why, I gave my son the dollar to buy the ticket," he shouted, "and I want my rights protected. This son of mine has caused me a lot of trouble."

Eddie's terse reply was that "the old man never paid for one of my bets in his life."

Dougherty, Sr., took time out between posing for photographs to indignantly declare he was "willing to do the right thing" by his two sons.

"I am ready to give them $41,000 each, keeping the balance for myself, but I won't stand for them putting anything over on me," he asserted.

Legal proceedings were threatened by the father, who had blood in his eye as a result of the latest development. He said that, if necessary, he would obtain the services of the best lawyer he could find. He persisted in this attitude even though he was told he did not have a leg to stand on, legally.

There the matter rested today. There was a possibility payment on the check would be stopped until the Doughertys definitely and unrevokingly settle the issue among themselves.

BRITISH ARMY OFFICER HELD

Afridi Tribesmen Keep Hostage

BOMBAY, June 7.—Major Farley, British army officer, was held hostage today by Afridi tribesmen between Afghanistan and Baluchistan.

Captain Prere and his wife, who had been captured together with Major Farley, had been released after they were held captive a short while and returned safely to Chaman.

The hill tribes have been conducting guerrilla warfare against British troops for several weeks, in fact, ever since the beginning of the Indian Nationalist campaign was instituted against British rule in India.

Royal air force bombing planes and mountain artillery had been employed lately by the British in an effort to dislodge various bands of Afridis from hilly fastnesses near Peshawar and other northwestern frontier centers.

OHIO BIG-GAME HUNTERS SEEK BIG APE

NORWALK, O., June 7.—An army of ape-hunters, a new kind of searching party in Ohio, is combing northern Ohio today for a large anthropoid ape, which is reported to be roaming this section.

Residents in the vicinity of Norwalk are horror-stricken following the many persistent reports of the huge animal's roaming activities.

First reports came from a party of motorists from Detroit. They said they had seen the ape Monday near the Norwalk Memorial Hospital. Local residents scoffed at the news. Impossible, was the common opinion.

A tourist from Mansfield gave the next report. He said he saw the beast in the outskirts of the city. Many truck drivers and motorists made similar reports. Norwalk citizens still thought someone was "seeing things."

PRINCE CAROL RETURNS

"Balkan Bad Boy" Who Renounced Throne For Sordid Romance Acclaimed As Hero

BUCHAREST, June 7.—Against a kaleidoscopic background of political intrigue, jealousy and illicit love, dynastic history was being made here today with former Crown Prince Carol of Roumania, the "bad boy of the Balkans" playing the chief role.

For the first time in five years, Carol was back in Roumania, separated from Magda Lupescu, the titian-haired beauty for whose love he renounced a throne, and now making a strong bid to wrest the crown and sceptre from his son, the boy King Michael.

Carol arrived in Bucharest from Paris last night by airplane to find detailed plans all completed for a reconciliation with his wife, Princess Helene, and a gradual resumption of the royal power he abandoned five years ago when he chose a love life in exile with Mme. Lupescu to his rights to the Roumanian throne.

The arrangements, detailed exclusively by International News Service a week ago, call first for Carol to take a seat on the regency council which is ruling Roumania in the minority of King Michael. He will take the place of his brother, Prince Nicholas, who is scheduled to go on a "long vacation," during which time his mother, the Dowager Queen Marie, will attempt to break up the romantic alliance between Nicholas and a beautiful Roumanian divorcee.

The queen is doing all in her power to prevent Nicholas from emulating his brother in abandonment.

SLAYS PARAMOUR OF WIFE WHEN TRAPPED IN HAMILTON HOME

Youthful Husband A- mits Triangle Killing

HAMILTON, O., June 7.—A husband's jealousy of attentions showered on his young wife by a 50-year-old admirer today had culminated in the death of Hayes Farmer and the retention of Earl Neely, 25, in county jail here on a murder charge.

Neely, an employee of the Estate Stove Company here, allegedly shot and killed Farmer Friday night when the latter arrived at the Neely residence, accompanied by Mrs. Neely.

The alleged murderer told police that he had been suspicious of his wife's and Farmer's "friendship" for more than a year.

After pumping three bullets into Farmer's body following a scuffle which ensued when Mrs. Neely and her alleged paramour entered the house, Neely ran to a nearby police station and surrendered.

Shot through the head and stomach, Farmer died before he could be taken to a hospital. A small pistol, police said, was found in one of his trouser pockets.

Mrs. Neely, according to authorities, admitted that she had been intimate with Farmer. She is the mother of two children, Donald, 4, and Irene, 13 months.

CONTRACTOR SLAIN RESISTING HOLD-UP BY THREE BANDITS

Escape Under Hail Of Bricks With Only $200 Loot

CLEVELAND, June 7.—Two suspects were arrested here today for questioning in connection with the murder of Anthony Verryk, 36, lathing contractor, who was killed and robbed late yesterday.

The two men were arrested by detectives in a raid on an East Side rooming house. One of the suspects answered the description of witnesses who saw the slayer escape following the cold-blooded murder. They described him as a "smooth, good-looking gunman."

He refused to answer questions regarding his whereabouts at the time of the robbery and murder.

The second man is being held on the theory that he knows something of the crime.

Verryk was shot and killed when he made a futile attempt to resist one of the bandits who robbed him of $200, the remainder of a $1,500 apartment building on which Verryk was working.

The murderer escaped in a shower of bricks which were thrown from the upper floors of the building by workmen who heard the shooting.

Verryk went to the apartment building with $1,500 in cash which he had drawn from a bank a short time before. He had paid most of his employees when he was cornered by the gunman on the landing of the fourth floor.

The bandit had trailed the contractor through the building in which nearly 100 men were working until Verryk reached a defenseless position. When Verryk refused to turn over the money bag, the bandit shot Verryk, grabbed the money bag and escaped.

Verryk was killed instantly, the bullet striking his heart. The bullet was fired from a .38-caliber revolver, police said, and passed through the man's body, striking a brick wall.

Three Chinese approached Ping as he stood at the curb. One drew a .38 calibre revolver, fired six shots, and, as Ping toppled off the curb into the street, dashed, hurled the gun into the gutter beside him.

Then the three sped around the corner, leaped into a large touring car in which another man sat at the wheel, and were driven away at high speed.

Harry Chen, an employee of the laundry, identified Ping. Ping was a member of the On Leong Tong, whose membership has been engaged in a factional battle for control, and, at the same time, fighting with the Hip Sing Tong, according to police.

Children's Day exercises will be held in the Sunday School room of First Baptist Church Sunday morning. A brief meditation by the pastor and the observance of the Lord's Supper will follow the exercises which begin at 10 o'clock. Anyone having flowers is asked to bring or send them to the church before the regular Sunday School services at 9:30.

Mr. Clement Henrie, son of Mrs. C. L. Henrie, W. Market St., will receive his bachelor of arts degree Tuesday from Ohio State University. He will enter the school of medicine at McGill University, Montreal, Canada, in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace S. Deger (Nora Kookler), 1027 Harshman Road, Riverside, Dayton, are announcing the birth of a daughter born Thursday at Smith Sanitarium, 130 Center College, Yellow Springs. The baby has been named Wanda Jean.

GOVERNMENT WILL SEND FRIENDSHIP CHESTS FREE, SAID

Sailing dates for army transports from New York and San Francisco for the Philippines in August and September, just announced, will make it possible for local churches and individuals who so desire to continue their arrangements for participation in the Friendship Treasure Chest project into the summer, Mrs. J. J. Stout, Greene County chairman, pointed out Saturday.

The project, sponsored by the National Committee on World Friendship Among Children, involves the sending of Friendship Treasure Chests, packed with gifts and accompanied by messages of greeting, as expressions of good-will for the children of the Philippines. In their participation the women's organizations of the local churches and other interested groups are cooperating with the Woman's Department of the Ohio Council of Churches.

When chests are packed and sent in cases of ten or more, the United States government is providing free transportation for them from either New York or San Francisco, shipping charges to these points being borne by the senders. Chests may also be formulated by parcel post direct to the Philippines.

The chests and their contents will be distributed to the children of the islands through the public schools.

There will be one more transport sailing from New York, August 15, and two more from San Francisco, June 27 and Sept. 11, according to the information just received from state headquarters.

The churches in Greene County are responding liberally to this peace project. Each church is asked to report to the county chairman when they send chests.

Edward S. Wertz, Wooster, will preside at the unveiling of the statue of Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of the university, at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

WALSH SAYS CANNON DEFY IS CONTEMPT

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., who defied the senate lobby committee and walked out on it, is "clearly in contempt of the senate," in the opinion of Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D) of Montana, acting chairman of the committee.

"Bishop Cannon is exactly in the same position as a witness before any court who has been sworn and then leaves the stand without permission," said Walsh. "I don't intend to wage any newspaper controversy with Bishop Cannon, but quorum or no quorum he is in contempt."

Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas, the chairman, who went to his home state to make some school commencement addresses on the eve of Cannon's appearance before his committee, is due to reach here Monday. At that time Walsh, with Senators Borah (R) of Idaho, and Blaine (R) of Wisconsin, will take up the Cannon case with him.

Star Gazing

By RADIE HARRIS

Real name is James E. Brown of the Dallas, Texas, Browns. Changed to Hamilton—in honor of the Alexander Hamilton cigar—for professional purposes. Later abbreviated to Hall to conserve electrical bill expenses. Everyone calls him "Jim."

Was the answer to his mother's prayer, Oct. 22, 1900.

Loved uniforms so decided to go on the stage, because he heard that actors are always "on parade."

Ran away with "Peg o' My Heart" company at tender age of eleven. Father ran after him and brought him home. Wasn't so tender again for a long, long time.

Knew His Stars

Knew motion picture stars before he ever went to Hollywood. Met Nancy Carroll, Lucille Le Sueur (Joan Crawford) and Marie Saxon in the chorus of "The Passing Show" every night.

Was appearing in a Broadway musical when he received a card backstage requesting him to call at "No. 485 Fifth Avenue." It was signed Walter Wanger. Put it in his vest coat pocket and promptly forgot all about it.

Several months later accompanied a friend to the same address. Was interviewed by a strange man who discussed a picture contract with him. A few days later was sent to Hollywood as leading man to Bebe Daniels in "The Campus Flirt." Never knew until long after that he had been talking to Jesse Lasky.

Arrived at Paramount studio to find Bebe in hospital. Waited for four months for her to recuperate, with nothing to do but collect weekly salary check. Claims he liked picture "work" immediately.

Recently moved into Italian bungalow furnished in modernistic style in exclusive section of Beverly Hills. As yet no lady fair occupies any of the "hall" rooms, but Merna Kennedy is expected any day now.

Has a menagerie, consisting of a Great Dane, police dog, scottie, wire-haired terrier, whippet, seven canaries, a trained goose, and a pig, the gift of Bebe Daniels. Ben Lyon still threatens to contribute a cow.

Arises every morning at eight o'clock and takes mile and three-quarter run with trainer before breakfast.

Superstitious

Is very superstitious. Dresses from the left, can't look at a cross-eyed man and won't allow a hat on a bed.

Never misses a Friday night at the Stadium fights, a baseball game or hockey and polo matches.

Saw the war from the front seat of a touring car. Was chauffeur for the Commander-General in the First Texas Artillery.

Could live on a diet composed exclusively of stewed corn and caviar.

Has played "hero" to practically every heroine of the screen, but raves most about Pola Negri and Vilma Banky. In his off-screen moments is partial to red heads in general and one in particular.

Likes first nights and picture premieres, but hates visiting friends back stage.

Is sentimental about a medal blessed by the Pope and an old Spanish coin.

Home Band Presented In Annual Concert

SKILFULLY chaperoned by Prof. H. E. Seall, who directed his boys through tonal complexities with a sure baton, the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home Cadet Band gave its annual concert in the Home auditorium Friday night. A large number of Xenia visitors also enjoyed the entertainment as the invited guests of the musical organization.

The concert was a fine achievement both for the members of the band and for Prof. Seall, band director. The band selections ranged from Victor Herbert favorites to college songs and included several more difficult numbers which were given imaginary touches, such as the Anvil Chorus, Jolly Blacksmith and My Grandfather's Clock. The first two selections were made to seem more realistic by the introduction of anvils.

Interpersing the band numbers were several specialties. A girls' octette which sang two songs, "Lullaby" and "Kentucky Babe" made an outstanding hit with its pleasing harmony.

Mrs. Corinne Mason, near Xenia, who was graduated Thursday night from the Proctor School of Music at Dayton, gave two monologues, one entitled "A Visit to the Dentist" and the other called "Moving Picture Pests," and her impersonations were greatly enjoyed.

Another innovation was a chorus of buglers during the playing of one band number. Mrs. Louise Coffelt also entertained with two vocal selections entitled "Morning" and "That's All," with Mrs. Homer Gratz as her piano accompanist.

The complete program follows: Victor Herbert Favorites Arr. by M. L. L. Lake The Mill in the Forest R. Ellenberg Octette—Lullaby Handley Kentucky Babe Geibel First Soprano—Hannah Griffith, Mary Bryant.

KNOWING WHAT TO DO—and doing it—that's what carries a man up . . . and a cigarette, too.

PUTTING FIRST THINGS FIRST—good taste, uniform quality, aroma, flavor—Chesterfield's popularity is built on knowing what smokers want . . . and giving it unflinchingly.

TASTE—THAT'S THE ANSWER and that's what smokers get in Chesterfield in fullest measure—the flavor and aroma of mellow tobaccos, exactly blended and cross-blended, all to a single, satisfying end . . .

"TASTE above everything."

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price. LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SORROW UNTO LIFE—For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of; but the sorrow of the world worketh death.—2 Cor. 7:10.

FACING LIFE

Much of our attention in Ohio is given about now to the young folks who are graduating from schools and colleges. Here we have a million new recruits coming into the world of activity. With what hopes do they face the future? Do they tremble on the brink of the unknown, or do they face life with buoyant courage?

The spirit of confidence with which these youngsters face the uncertainties of the future has something very cheering about it. It is an encouragement to people of all ages. For courage does take people a long way. Many folks fail to accomplish much in the world, because they fear to try out their powers.

The young people come out from their studies with a feeling of strength and forcefulness. They believe they can do things. They are not afraid of a few failures. They have a feeling that the world is kindly, and in the long run they will get along.

When people have that attitude toward life, they usually do get along. They may get knocked down a few times, but all the time they are gaining experience, and learning valuable things. They may learn more out of a failure, than a lot of older folks do out of years of routine and mediocre success.

The older man with a wife and children dependent on him goes slow. He hesitates long before he risks a small certainty for a large uncertainty. The youth starts out in life with freedom to choose. All the world is open to him. He knows he can make good somehow.

If the captains of industry won't take him into their offices, then he knows he can dig dirt, and he is willing to do anything to make good. Such spirit will carry many of them a long way, and the energy and courage of each class of graduates helps carry business and industry and community life to a higher level.

THE TORNADO PERIL

If recent tornadoes have caused any of our people to worry about this particular peril, they may be asking why it is that these terrific wind storms occur almost exclusively in only two countries, the United States and Australia. It is a question, as yet not definitely answered. Tornadoes, according to the Daily Science News Bulletin, kill about 310 people each year, and while the annual property loss is large, the risk is not so great as that threatened by lightning or fire.

One of these fierce storms must be a terrifying experience, with the wind blowing 400 to 500 miles an hour, but after all the total loss of life is only a very small fraction of the people killed by automobiles.

It is extremely difficult to believe that Rudyard Kipling is highly appreciative of the effort to make him a candidate for the job of poet laureate. The position would not add to his fame. It would tend to put him in a class with minor versifiers.

Women, also, are dying younger than they used to, according to statisticians. At any rate, thanks to the beauty parlors, they look younger when they die.

The task of writing tariffs would be greatly simplified if consumers never produced and producers never consumed.

The repeated warnings Mr. Hoover addresses to congress against over-spending sound familiarly paternalistic.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

FORESIGHT

You may think most of man's trouble comes from his inability to see around the corner. Not so. We often have a great deal of foresight. We can see around the corner all right, but we have too little sound sense to act on what we see. Wanting what we want, we buy this or invest in that—bandaging our foresight. It is not that we can not see. It is that we do not wish to see.

HULL HOUSE

The great and the humble pay proper honor and respect to Jane Addams, one of the founders of Hull House, noted Chicago social settlement. A legion of lives have been changed from bad to good by the vision, the tireless patience, the indomitable industry of Jane Addams. She and Ellen Gates Starr founded Hull House forty years ago. Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain sends a cablegram on the anniversary.

It is a tremendous thing—the greatest thing in the world—to invest one's life in such a way as to pay everlasting dividends to humanity.

MEN IN THE HOME

Listen to Marion McClench, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs. She thinks that by 1930 women may be the family wage earners. Men may sit at home, darn the socks and help the babies blow their noses. She says a woman can be anything a man can be—except a father. Well, women are already, by thousands, wage earners. One would think they would like home better. But one never can tell.

AS WOMEN SMOKE

Fires in dormitories at Smith college, caused by cigarettes in waste baskets, bring on a rule restricting smoking to certain fireproof rooms. President Nielson, of Smith, says: "The trouble is my dear young ladies, you do not smoke like gentlemen."

Women have done fairly well in imitating the bad habits of men. The next thing is to get the technique down to a little finer point. Let them, indeed, learn to smoke like gentlemen. And why not cigars?

THE IDEA OF GOD

An investigator says the child's idea of God is vague. Well, that's not much to worry about. Most people's idea of God is vague. That's not the important thing. Our idea may always be vague. Man isn't smart enough to figure out a very definite, clear idea about it. But the average human does know up from down, and he should have the intelligence and the will to act in accordance with what knowledge he has.

HISTORY AS YOU GO

These are early touring days. Don't drive just to get to a good place to spend the night. Don't set out only to visit relatives and friends, with nothing else in mind. Every state in the union has its story to tell. There are the footsteps of great men to follow, shrines of freedom, court houses, churches and doorways where history was made. Stop at these places. Learn of your own country—first hand.

How are the naval aviators selected?
Candidates for naval aviators are selected from graduates of the naval academy at Annapolis, who volunteer for flying duty. These candidates are required to submit to a rigid flight physical examination, and if they pass this successfully, they are sent to the naval air station at Pensacola (Fla.) for training. The ground and flight courses include theoretical and practical flying in both seaplanes and land planes, and theoretical and practical gunnery, bombing, navigation, radio, etc. If the candidate successfully completes this course, he is designated a naval aviator.

Outlawed Patriots
Were the signers of the Declaration of Independence outlawed by Great Britain?

The signers and their families were proscribed as traitors by the British government, and rewards of $500 were offered for their apprehension.

Danish West Indies

When were the Danish West Indies acquired by the United States?

The Danish West Indies were taken possession of by the United States on March 31, 1917, and cost us $25,000,000. They had a population of 32,000 and consisted of the islands of St. Croix, St. Thomas and St. John.

New York's Flag

When was the flag of the city of New York adopted?

This flag was adopted in 1915 at the order of the mayor. It tells the history of New York. The colors in the flag are Dutch—blue, white and orange—the same which floated over the Island of Manhattan more than 300 years ago. The colors are exact, a pure indigo blue in use in 1624, and the distinctive color of the Prince of Orange. The arms are English, representing the reign of the Duke of York, and the crest is a spread eagle, distinctly American.

Removing Wax

What is the best method to remove wax from clothes?
Scrape off as much as possible; then use French chalk, blotting paper or other absorbent with a warm iron. The iron will melt the wax and the absorbent will take up the wax. Benzine or gasoline may also be used.

NOTE: The following pamphlets may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a large stamped, self-addressed envelope for each, to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

OUT-OF-DATE.

NEW YORK CITY. New York—Irving Cobb's gift of colorful expression is getting banished or else the gentleman from Kentucky is not in step with the modern small talk. In a recent article, viewing the theatre with alarm, the height of his disgust is written in such words as "buncombe," "bologna" and "apple-sauce." "Buncombe" still is used by careless penmen who are too lazy to keep up with the parade, but "bologna" and "apple-sauce" are products of the early flapper era, and in this day and date are used only by the word feeble and fledglings.

I am sure, anyway, Mr. Cobb's readers must prefer the softness of our own Kentucky, rather than the tough tartness of Broadway, with which he has no truck.

COME WHAT MAY.

The Happy-go-Lucky Club is a New York institution and the price of its stock is asking the truth. In a nutshell the credo is: "We love to be happy. And we have determined to control our own happiness. Fashion has taken away our food because we must maintain modern figures. The market has taken away our profits because it has crashed. But our love of beauty, our love of goodness and our love of our fellowman remains. That and our love of joy, so we are determined to be happy-go-lucky, come what may."

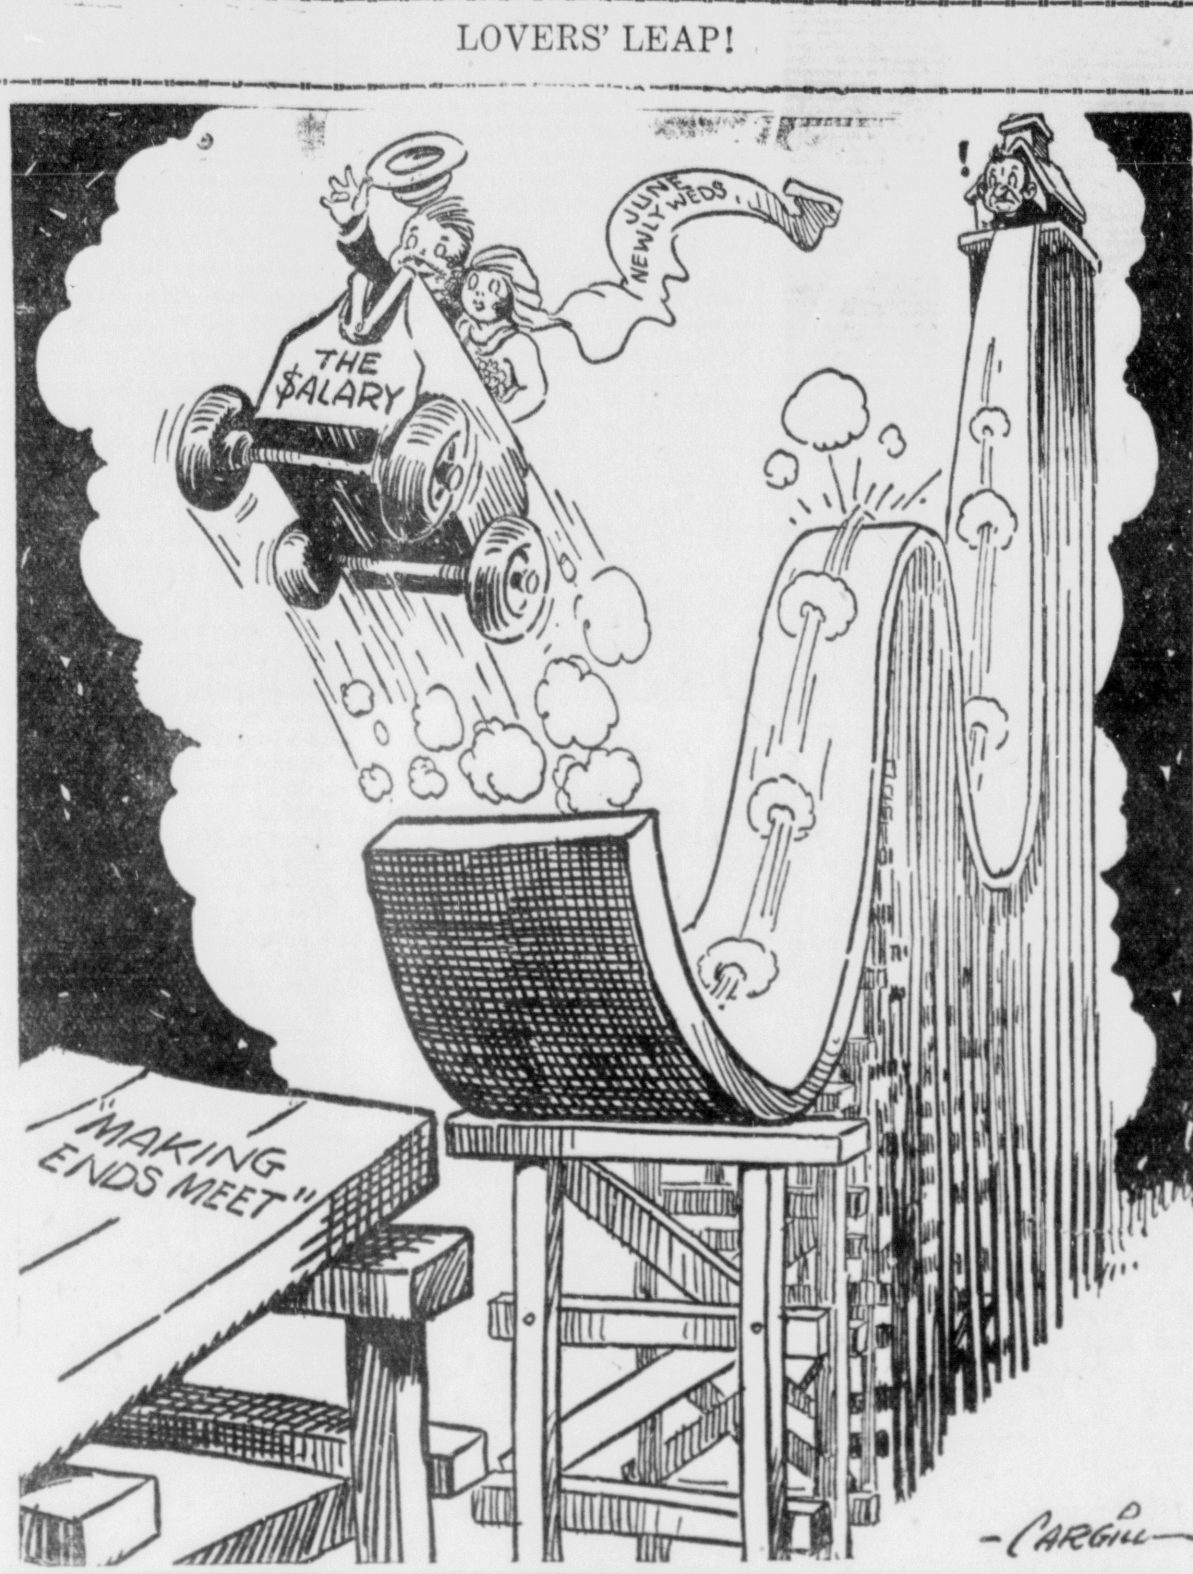

Mrs. Ina Leland Davis is the head of this cult which promises to banish gloom from life, and enter only in discussions that involve happiness. Stage folk, artists and writers compose the membership and I should like to hear the "happiness" talk some of them have with the landlord when he calls and the good old check hasn't shown up.

JUST THEORY.

Imagine trying to tell a bride-to-be just what she should spend for her trousseau, yet that is just what the New York Federation of Women's Clubs is trying to do.

Mrs. Teresa Speed, the Federation's budget expert, says that a girl marrying a man earning $50 a week should spend $200; if he draws $75 weekly the limit is $350, and should the old pay envelope hold a weekly stipend of $100 she is within her rights to spend $500.

It's an idea—and that's about all.

DAVIS PROVES WILLING CANDIDATE

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis certainly desires to please.

A few years ago, when President Harding wanted to appoint him to his cabinet and an awkward situation threatened to develop because he was a Pennsylvanian and two cabinet members from the same state were a trifling too many—James J. Davis discovered that he was from Illinois instead, thus ending the whole difficulty.

Much more recently, finding the Keystone State G. O. P. in sore straits for a senatorial candidate—what did Davis immediately recall?—but that, after all, his home was in Pittsburgh; so now we see him on the waiting list to be fitted for a toga at next November's election.

It would have been embarrassing to the White House, in view of its well-known dry attitude, if Mr. Davis had made his campaign as a wet, for the Keystone State's G. O. P. senatorial nomination—in fact, so embarrassing that James J. could hardly have stayed in the cabinet while he conducted it—and out of consideration for the president, he did not want to quit; not to mention the detail that it was a source of strength to him to be regarded as the administration's preference for the senate, succeeding old Joe Grundy, who has not endeared himself to Mr. Hoover.

Puddler James accordingly contrived to seek the nomination as a dry—but not too dry to have the backing of the wettest political machine in the country—the celebrated Vare machine of Philadelphia.

Nominated, however, and due to be elected, to an airtight certainty, there is no denying that Mr. Davis does owe something to Pennsylvania wet sentiment, and confidential reports are that he is turning gradually moist. What of it?—for that matter—the time now having come when he must soon quit the cabinet anyway.

All in all, it was an exceedingly tactful performance—the administration gets the satisfaction of feeling that the anti-Hooverish cracks in the United States senate, has been kicked into oblivion; the Keystone wets believe they have got a fairly dependable wet candidate; the dries cannot prove that they have not got a dry one, and James J. has a two-year term in the senate. What is the end result?—for that matter—the time now having come when he must soon quit the cabinet anyway.

It is not entirely safe betting that even old Joe is without his consolations.

While the primary campaign raged, he appears to have effected a middling close alliance with Gifford Pinchot, who carried off the G. O. P. governorship nomination. On the theory that old Joe can control the governor's office through Pinchot (as some politicians think he can, in the event of Pinchot's highly probable election), he will leave.

Telling a bride to buy for the big moment of her life is like trying to legislate the grace of God into the human heart.

MOVING UP.

On Broadway there is today a patent medicine show, a dime museum, several auction rooms, a minstrel troupe, an automatic photograph parlor, innumerable open air drink fountains, a flea circus, one or two second-hand stores, food automatons, barkers for picture houses, panhandlers, grafters, racketeers, unaccounted speakers, the Salvation Army, pitch men, spring-heel actors, faded soubrettes, and gimme girls by the hundreds.

The Bovey has moved uptown.

have a better stranglehold on Pennsylvanian than he could possibly have as senator.

A partnership between old Joe Grundy and Gifford Pinchot is a perfectly ridiculous idea, of course. The ultra-reactionary old Joe stands for everything that always has been anathema to the vehemently radical Gifford, but anything can happen in Pennsylvania.

There is one thing counting against James J. Davis.

In moving back from Illinois he should have made his home in the eastern part of the Quaker state instead of Pittsburgh.

From time immemorial it has been the custom of one of Pennsylvania's senators to come from the east, around Philadelphia, or thereabouts, and the other from the west, in the Pittsburgh neighborhood.

Now, Senator David A. Reed is a Pittsburgher, which makes the steel city a poor political dwelling place for Puddler Jim Davis.

Two years hence Senator Reed's term will expire. So will Senator Davis', for his present nomination is only to fill out the unfinished term to which William S. Vare was elected in 1926 but never allowed to start on, and to which old Joe Grundy was appointed by Governor Fisher, to serve until the next regular election.

Reed will not desire to retire in Davis' favor, and he may be strong enough to hang onto his seat in spite of all that Davis can do, in his tactful way, to dynamite him out of it.

It will be terrible if James J. finally proves to have done so many kindnesses, for the administration and others, in return for a mere two years in the senate.

Oranges are expensive now, so are grape fruit, so serve fresh strawberries or pineapple or stewed prunes or figs for the breakfast fruit. This menu is for a family of six.

Today's Recipes

Eggs, Los Angeles—Boil eight eggs hard. Cook a bunch of cleaned asparagus. Cut eggs in half lengthwise. Arrange half of the halves, yolk side up, in the bottom of a baking dish. Lay the asparagus over these and place rest of egg halves on top. Pour over two cups seasoned white sauce. Top with buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes.

Rhubarb Tapioca—Three cups rhubarb, one-half cup minute tapioca, one and one-half cups boiling water, one cup sugar. Cook over boiling water till tapioca is transparent and mixture has thickened. Place in individual molds and chill before serving.

Sponge Cake—Sift one cup sugar into a bowl. Add three tablespoons cold water, the yolk of four eggs, and beat thoroughly. Add a pinch of salt, one teaspoon vanilla, and then put one and one-half tablespoons cornstarch in a cup, fill with flour and sift three times with two teaspoons cream tartar and half a teaspoon soda. Stir this into the yolk mixture. Beat whites stiff and fold in last. Bake in an ungreased cake tin for 45 minutes. Invert pan to cool. Use icing made of brown sugar and cream.

Egg and Watercress—Mash hard cooked eggs and season well with mayonnaise and lemon juice. Add a little more salt if necessary. Chop or pull the watercress apart. Spread the egg mixture on white bread, add the watercress and cover with buttered bread slices.

Mock Chicken—Two cups diced celery, one-half cup diced carrots, two hard cooked eggs, chopped; one-fourth cup sweet pickle, chopped; mayonnaise to moisten. Mix thoroughly and chill. If desired, line the sandwich with a lettuce leaf before filling with the mixture.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

"DEAR DOCTOR: My husband has been depressed more or less, ever since I have known him, and we have been married for more than 20 years. No physician, after a check-up, has been able to determine the cause for this, and he has consulted quite a number. He started taking cod liver oil, and after taking it for a time, he began to improve, and gradually the depression lifted. He began to feel better in every way, and what joy! Then the oil began to disagree with him and he had to discontinue taking it. He had no trouble in taking it, but it upset his stomach afterwards. He tried a certain brand of cod liver oil tablets but these did not benefit him as the oil did.

"What vitamins are contained in C. L. oil? While he eats plenty of vegetables, he apparently does not get enough of the vitamins he needs. Can you suggest some way to avoid the sickness resulting from taking the oil? We anxiously await your reply, as the depression returns as soon as the oil is left off.

"MRS. P."

Cod liver oil is exceedingly high in vitamins A and D. All the vitamins have some qualities that are alike, and they are all necessary, but vitamin A has more to do with growth and the integrity of the mucous membranes; and D (the sunshine vitamin) has to do with calcium and phosphorus metabolism, so has to do with proper bone and teeth formation, and maintenance and is a preventive and curative of rickets. It also has to do with the normal chemistry of the blood.

Now, which one is so markedly benefiting your husband, I cannot tell; but he can get the sunshine vitamin by taking sun baths in the nude or by the ultra-violet ray baths. And he can get more vitamin A by increasing his butter and cream and green vegetables.

There is a concentrated vitamin D preparation, called viosterol. It is very many more times potent in vitamin D than in cod liver oil.

But this preparation has no vitamin A in it. The cod liver oil tablets you mention are not officially recognized as being effective. In other words, they have not passed the exhaustive tests necessary to prove their worth. I suggest you get the brand that has officially passed these tests and is accepted by the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry of the American Medical Association. This fact is marked on the label of the bottle. (Checks are kept on any medications that are passed to see that they keep up their standards.)

For those who are interested, we have an article on Balanced Diet, which will prove helpful. See column rules for obtaining this.

"Dear Doctor: Is an operation for tongue-tie necessary, and is it dangerous?"

It is necessary, Miss K., if it affects the speech, and for uncomplicated tongue-tie, it is a very simple operation. It can be done in the wink of an eye and without anesthesia. It is just snipping the little membrane at the under side of the tongue, but you should see your physician, of course. Don't try to do it yourself! You might snip too deep.

Miss L.: Our pamphlet on the Hygiene of Women answers your questions. See column rules for obtaining it.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following small charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet, ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are: "Living and Loving," "Hygiene of Women," "Kidney and Bladder Disorders." Address Dr. Peters, care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MISS LEE: I am writing you for advice. Both of my parents are dead, having just died recently. My oldest brother (I have two) seems to grieve and worry so. He tries to drown his sorrow when he gets more distressed than usual, by drinking, or else by walking the streets until midnight.

"I have tried everything, but I just can't get within a mile of him, it seems. We three children are all separated and I am the girl. Please try to help me.

"Broken Hearted Sister." Isn't that just typical of the two sexes—that is, generally speaking! The man tries to drown his sorrows in drink; the woman by comforting another.

It's hard to advise you at long distance, dear, but I would like to talk over with you the methods you have tried to divert your brother. I don't even know whether you are married or single. If you were living together you might plan to have some one he likes particularly drop in for an evening every now and then or you might get tickets and invite him to go to the show with you.

The type of person who won't let anyone share his grief always suffers more and is so much harder to console. I know. Does he like reading? If so you might ask him to read to you. You might get some books that he would be interested in. Or you might get some books from the library that he would enjoy and give them to him to read. You can't talk to him directly about his sorrow.

I am of the belief that the majority of pimply conditions are due to lack of absolute cleanliness or to a "dirty" "distemper" such as over-eating or improper elimination.

And cleanliness brings its own reward. It is surprising to note the effect of frequent tub-baths on the quality of the skin of the hands. I have seen dry skin on hands blossom into soft, fine-textured skin as a result of frequent baths. And

Time, that greatest of all healers will eventually bring him out all right, if he is of normal mind. So don't worry, too much, dear Sister. If he grows more morbid, however, try to influence him to see a doctor, either personally or through some friend.

A BROKEN-HEARTED SIS: Maybe if you took a more independent stand, the boy friend would not treat you so shabbily. Love seems to make doormats of some of us, doesn't it?

HENRIETTA: Isn't it just possible that your fiancé told the other boy friend that you were engaged, or let him know in some way? That would account for his behavior. Don't let it worry you, and let the matter rest for the present. It may clear itself up, or you get a chance to find out what it is all about shortly.

THEIR SWEETHEART: I think with you, that you are too young to consider marrying either of your boy friends just now. Don't give either up as friends. Keep them in mind until you decide which is your right mate.

JACKIE: I really don't see much use in going with a boy who makes dates and then breaks them. Yes, I would give him the ring if he wanted it.

How To Achieve Beauty

By GLAYS GLAD

Scars that result from the pressing out of blackheads and pimples are very difficult to treat. Usually those who complain of such scars are victims of acne, or some skin disease. The skin being sick, cannot quickly bring back to normal appearance the flesh that has been abused in the squeezing process.

Those who persist in this ancient method of getting rid of blackheads and pimples often do not permit the wounds they have made on their face to heal before the process is begun all over again.

Despite the unsightliness of pimples allow them to come to a head. They will open naturally. Be prepared, then, with a piece of antiseptic cotton, to aid the procedure without getting rid of blackheads on the sick spot. The use of the fingernails or a needle to release the pus carries the danger of infection, regardless of the amount of care exercised.

Especially is this true of skin that is diseased, for such skin cannot throw off the ordinary quantities of dust and dirt that "every face is heir to." And how much less is such skin able to rid itself of additional attacks from germ-carrying sources?

I am of the belief that the majority of pimply conditions are due to lack of absolute cleanliness or to a "dirty" "distemper" such as over-eating or improper elimination.

FRAMED

The Rev. J. P. Lytle, who spent about a week in Des Moines, Ia., as a delegate from Xenia Presbytery to the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, witnessed his first night baseball game while in that city and got quite a "kick" out of it.

The Xenia minister witnessed a game between Des Moines and Pueblo and aside from the first inning when quite an argument ensued between a catcher and a batter as to whether the artificial lights impaired the vision of the umpire in calling balls and strikes, the game went off smoothly.

The outskirts of the playing field were encircled by rows of powerful searchlights casting their beams at various angles so as not to blind the players and the ball, when hit, was easily discernible, the Rev. Mr. Lytle said. Balls hit high in the air could be seen plainly and appeared to the local minister to grow in size so that for almost resembled balloons, an illusion for which the glare of the artificial lights was responsible.

Geyers and the Lang Chevrolet Co., the two foremost contenders for the championship of the National Softball League, met for the first time Thursday night and Geyers emerged victorious in the first skirmish by a score of 15 to 14 in a fiercely-fought game that took an hour and a half to complete. It was probably the longest, most drawn out game of the season but was crammed full of action from start to finish.

The defeat was the first of the season for Geyers and there is not a team in either the National or American League which has not been beaten at least once, Geyers and Langs are tied for the league leadership.

The annual mythical all-Ohio track and field meet has again been won by the Buckeye Conference, according to Doug Miller, who points out that you can hold this meet at any time with in your own easy chair, simply by comparing the records made in the annual Buckeye Conference meet with those made in the Big Six meet. Doug says:

"Such a comparison reveals the fact that Buckeye records are better than those made by Ohio Conference schools in ten events while the Big Six records outclassed the Buckeye records in only five events. Superiority of the smaller group of central and southern Ohio schools is outstanding in both track and field events.

"The achievement of the Buckeye schools in out-pointing the Ohio Conference schools two to one on this comparative basis is apparent when one stops to remember that there are but five of the Buckeye schools whose records are here matched against those of all the other colleges in the state."

FROM TEE TO GREEN

VON ELM AT THE TOP OF HIS IRON SHOT

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer-Artist
George Von Elm's rise to golfing fame, as one of the foremost amateurs, is due to his wonderful iron play—the shot that lands on the green, dead to the pin, and stops within a few feet of the cup.

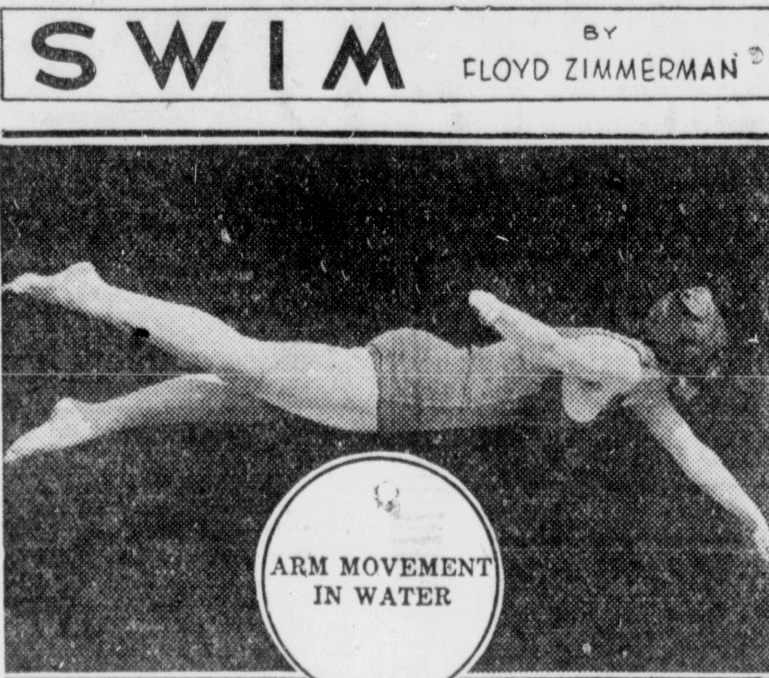

Note the right angles of Von Elm's shoulders and his body, also the left knee to the base of the foot, in proportion to all these angles. At no time does the wrist bend, dropping the club. He holds that tense action that keeps the club well under control.

There is no rising on the right foot. The ball of the foot and the heel are in contact with the ground. Von Elm rolls over on the foot rather than lifts the heels. This whole action serves to harness the iron shot.

In addressing the ball Von Elm is well balanced and in such a position as to let his right shoulder do the greater part of the hitting when he comes through to peg for the pin.

His weight is on his right foot, with his shoulder ready for the ball. In short, his position at the start of the backswing is the same position he will take when hitting. The club, George's wrists and shoulder all come into the ball at the same time, which gives him his deadly and perfect control to the pin.

The club, George's wrists and his finish is the same as you see him when at the top of his backswing.

LESSON SEVEN

Now you must supply the arm movement along with the leg movement while in the water. First comes the timing, four strokes with the feet to two with the arms. Your body must roll in time with your stroke, that is, when you have one arm down in the water your shoulder should be down with it. The other arm and shoulder in position for their turn.

Often you will neglect the leg movement in developing the arm movement, try one and then the other until both pull together in perfect timing.

The more you practice this stroke the swifter and easier you will move through the water in swimming the American crawl. Keep this practice up until you are able to co-ordinate at all times.

SHOEMAKERS VANQUISH KI-RO TO TIE AMERICAN LOOP LEADERS

Vanquishing the Kiwanis-Rotary team by a margin of 13 to 5 in an American League game Friday night at Cox Athletic Field, the Krippendorf-Dittman Co. softball team went into a tie with the Country Club Caddies for the league leadership.

The Ki-Ro nine, which lost a ten-inning struggle to Krippendorf on the previous occasion the two teams met, was leading the shoe factory boys, 3 to 2 at the end of the fourth round, but Krippendorf scored three runs in the fifth, four in the sixth and another quartet of tallies in the eighth.

Perrine, pitching for Krippendorf, had a shaky start in the first five innings but settled down and blanked Ki-Ro without a hit or run in the last four rounds.

Russ Kimber, Ki-Ro hurler, was hit harder than usual but was a

ANTIOCH WINS FROM CEDARVILLE THIRD TIME IN OVERTIME

Pitcher's Duel Is Broken Up In Twelfth Stanza

Antioch College's baseball team defeated Cedarville College for the third time this season by a score of 5 to 4 Friday afternoon on the Cedarville diamond in a twelve-inning pitcher's battle between Gar and Garlough.

In the twelfth stanza walked and Pyfe broke up the mound duel with his second triple of the game which scored the Antioch pitcher with the winning marker.

Antioch opened the scoring with a three-run spree in the third. Faurot walked, Confer singled, Meyer walked and Pyfe smacked a long blow to center that went for a three-bagger.

In the last of the fifth the Yellow Jackets tallied two runs on a single by B. Turner, a triple by Rife and W. Boyer's double. At this point Pavey, starting pitcher for Antioch, was replaced by Confer and this turned out to be a wise move on Coach Dawson's part. Confer stopped further scoring in this inning and held Cedarville to three hits in the seventh innings he labored on the bill.

Antioch scored again in the sixth when Goldberg opened with a single, was forced at second by Roosa and Pavey singled. Pavey had gone to third base when Confer was transferred to the mound. Cedarville, however, was not yet through and finally evened the score by tallying one run in the eighth and another in the ninth.

Osborn started in the box for Cedarville but gave way to Garlough. Each team collected nine hits.

Ray Goldberg, outfielder, was Antioch's leading hitter with three hits, all singles in six trips to the rubber. He was also hit by pitched balls three times but was called for interference. Score by innings: Antioch — 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1—5 Cedarville — 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 1 0—4 Batteries—Antioch: Pavey, Confer and Coskery; Cedarville: Osborn, Garlough and W. Boyer.

PROCLAMATION FOR FLAG DAY ISSUED

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—"It is in the heart of every loyal American that the flag of our country is most glorified," reads a proclamation issued by Governor Myers V. Cooper, designating Saturday, June 14, as "Flag Day." That day marks the one hundred and fifty-third anniversary of the official birth of the stars and stripes.

"Let every man, woman and child on this day pay special tribute to the flag and to the ideals for which it stands," the proclamation continued. "Let schools and patriotic societies of every kind throughout the state arrange programs, or special features, in celebration of the day. Let the flag be prominently displayed on all public and private buildings."

"It is the concerted thought and action of these citizens that the flag is most honored."

CANDIDATES MUST FILE BY FRIDAY

All candidates for public office subject to the primary election in August will have "weighed in" by 6:30 p. m. Friday, June 13, else they will be all out of luck, for this is the deadline date for filing nomination petitions with the Greene County board of elections. Any persons desiring to be a candidate thereafter will have to obtain 8 per cent of the vote cast at the primary by having their names written in on the ballot and having a plurality over any other candidates.

Business has not been particularly brisk as far as the election board is concerned but as the final date for filing declarations of candidacy nears, nominating petitions are expected to be filed with greater frequency as contests on the Republican ticket are promised for virtually every office.

RETURNING HOME

MRS. LYDIA CHARLTON, Xenia, only gold star mother from Greene County taking part in the government pilgrimage of mothers to the graves of their sons in France, is expected to arrive home Sunday morning. Mrs. Charlton arrived in New York Friday with the first contingent of gold star mothers to return. She visited the grave of her son, Private Charles L. Charlton in the Meuse-Argonne Cemetery, France.

WRIGHT FIELD AIR CARNIVAL BIGGEST EVER STAGED THERE

L. A. Davis, Greene County road patrolman, was assigned Saturday by Sheriff Ohmer, Tate to assist in keeping peace and decorum and help regulate traffic in the afternoon and evening at Fairfield where the army is staging the most stupendous air carnival of recent years.

The afternoon show commenced at 2 o'clock and the evening performance will begin at 8 o'clock. The evening program will include an exhibition of airdrome illumination, aerial fireworks, the looping comet, demonstration of night photography, letters of fire in the sky and an illuminating smoke screen, and other features.

There will also be a ground exhibit showing an unusually complete display of airplanes, including many of the newest and highest performance aircraft owned by the U. S. army. In addition, one of the early model Wright biplanes will be available for inspection.

At 9 p. m. a dance will take place in the gymnasium, a spacious hall with an excellent floor. A special charge will be made for the dance, which is to be held under the auspices of the Women's Aero Association. The dancing will continue until 1 o'clock although the air carnival will be over at 10 p. m.

A system of radio loudspeakers has been installed which will allow even the uninitiated to know what is doing at all times.

AMERICAN LEGION

URGING DISPLAY OF COLORS ON FLAG DAY

National Flag Day, June 14, will be observed in Xenia by a general display of "Old Glory" before business houses and homes, and in preparation for this important event, Chairman George Suggen of the Americanization Committee of the American Legion is prepared to tell any citizen the proper regulations for display of the flag in any position desired. Chairman Suggen has a copy of the code for display of the flag, adopted at a meeting of national patriotic societies in Washington a few years ago and will be glad to pass on any information desired to any resident who requests it.

A subject that frequently arouses much controversy is that dealing with the proper method of saluting the national flag. For the information of those who are in doubt, the section of the code outlined for this purpose is given below by Chairman Suggen:

"During the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the flag, or when the flag is passing in parade or review all persons should stand at attention, facing the flag. Men's headress should be removed with the right hand and held at the left shoulder. Those present in uniform should salute with the right hand salute. Women should stand at attention facing the flag, or, as the flag is passing in parade, should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. If the national anthem is played, and no flag is present all stand at attention when uncovered and salute at the first note of the anthem, retaining this position until the last note of the air is played. If in civilian dress and covered, men should uncover and stand at attention, facing the music. Women stand at attention and salute."

DAD'S GIRL

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO DESERVED TO WIN

READ THIS FIRST:

Clara Dee Forester is the pampered, motherless daughter of a millionaire, who is so disgusted with the wealthy young that he leaves his daughter one dollar at his death, hoping that some quality in her will make her a successful woman. She goes to Mrs. Flynn's boarding house to live, and there meets Winfield Baxter, a young chemist. After weeks of discouragement, she becomes a model for the famous artist, Ivan Moreau, who finally persuades her to accept his entertainment. Winfield also takes her out to much less expensive places.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

She hurried out and joined Ivan with a flushed face. He glanced at her shrewdly, but said nothing.

She was again thrilled anew, when they had been ushered to their box at the theater—more jewels and furs, gowns of every texture and color, rich velvet hangings, thousands of rays of light from huge, crystal-hung chandeliers. Directly opposite in a lower box, she recognized old friends.

She was glad that the width of the house divided them. Ivan, watching her closely, noticed the startling expression and sigh of relief—and wondered. The show was good, as he had promised, though he watched her more than he did the stage. During the last act, he grew restless and Clara Dee humored him by suggesting that they leave before the final curtain.

When they stopped at Mrs. Flynn's, he drew her into his arms and held her fiercely, while he crushed his mouth on hers in a long kiss. When she could speak, she said scathingly, "Are you trying to make me carry out my threat—that I shall refuse to go out with you?"

"Oh! don't be so cross with me, Chickadee. How can I be so un-demonstrative as a wooden man when I am with you?"

"That is just why I should not be with you. You refuse to respect my wishes—I withdraw from our standing engagements for Thursday evenings."

"Please don't be so cruel with me. You are the only thing I have ever wanted that has been denied me. Do you wonder that I forget myself and attempt to take you without your consent?"

"Which doesn't make the situation one bit easier nor more pleasant for me! Really, I think I should stop seeing you at all. Can't you find someone else to take my place in your work?"

"Never! Don't be even more cruel. If I promise to refrain from such demonstrations of my emotions, will you reconsider? And perhaps you will even do me the favor of trying to like me just a little," he pleaded humbly.

"But I do like you," she protested.

"Don't deceive yourself, dear. And if you don't like me, be generous enough to ask yourself why. Is it I whom you dislike, or the rumors of gossip which you associate with me? Have you given yourself a chance to like me, or have you steeled yourself against me because of things you have heard said by my enemies?"

"Then you think I am not sufficiently modern to form opinions of my own, and like whom I please?"

"Not just that. But however the girls of today prefer to be, they unconsciously build up a defense against men or recklessly dive into friendships with them, with disregard for old-fashioned convention and gossip."

"Perhaps you are right."

"And have I given you sufficient cause to distrust me, Chickadee?"

"No, you have been more than kind, but you must give me time now to readjust myself to you—a new you! whom I have apparently just discovered."

She laughed softly. "You have regarded me as a beast of prey and not as a human admirer."

"To a certain extent perhaps, yes. You must let me become acquainted with my new suitor."

He let it go at that. He cared not what name she chose to attach to his attentions—sufficient that he had won her over to his point of view.

So, there followed many pleasant evenings with him, interspersed occasionally by an outing with Winfield. She endured Ivan's intimate, possessive attitude for the intoxicating pleasure of the places they frequented; she tolerated the common-placeness of second-run movies, third class restaurants, and long trips—though she did immensely enjoy the latter—for the pleasant companionship of the boy who sent wild pulses pounding through her body.

Mrs. Viola Burham of Lincoln, Neb., and her son, Rev. and Mrs. Burham of Indiana, were guests of the former's uncle, William Ewing and family a few days the past week.

"Oh, don't be so cross with me."

Ivan's shining motor, he resolved to give up the whole sham, identify himself to her and proceed to enter the contest with some of the weapons which seemed to make Ivan successful. Then the fear that he might lose what frail hold he had on her, that she would angrily resent his pretense at limited circumstances, stopped him.

Great was his relief and joy when she consented to join him on an outing, for he hated himself when he took her into the places he was supposed to be able to afford. Except for the pleasure her nearness afforded him, he was utterly miserable in such surroundings. He wondered how she could pretend to enjoy herself, when he knew that she had been so familiar as he, with all the most stimulating, hilarious, indulgent forms of entertainment.

He was much more satisfied and happy when, upon several occasions, they went for long hikes through the Palisades on the Hudson, skated on the park lagoons, and twice during the open season they spent a whole day hunting over in New Jersey. Clara Dee proved as good a shot as he, having brought back one rabbit and a pheasant. Winfield had succeeded in borrowing a shot gun from one of the other lodgers for her, and Mrs. Flynn cooked and served their game the next evening, making a pleasant event of supper. Clara Dee helped her.

"Now I'd be after thinkin' that such trips as ye have with Mister Baxter ud be a heap more pleasure than them wild parties ye go to with that there artist feller," she remarked, as she carved the juicy, brown meat. She usually gave her advice in the form of subtle observations.

"Yes, Mother Flynn, I believe I do like the out of doors much better than I used to. I've always had plenty of the sort of pleasure Mr. Moreau invites me to share. I never thought walking to physical exhaustion could really be recreation, but Win has taught me so many interesting things about the woods and rivers. We feed crabs from our lunch to the sparrows, snow birds and chickadees, just to watch them. Of course, at this time of year, there isn't so much to see. I'm eager for spring to come, so that we may watch the birds when they return from the South and are building their nests, and the wild flowers bloom and the trees put on their summer foliage. And skating out of doors on natural ice is heaps more fun than being indoors on an artificial rink. It's like the difference between the lemonade at the circus, made with lemon extracts, and the delicious, refreshing beverage that is made with the real fruit juices—or anything real and artificial." She laughed at her odd simile.

"Now ye're talkin' sense, child, and the same rule is just as good when applied to people, don't ye be forgettin' that." She shut her lips firmly together.

"Gee, you're good to us, Mrs. Flynn. You'll sit down with us to-night and be our guest or honor?"

"Now do be gettin' along with ye afore the vittles gets cold." She shoved them into the dining room and rang the supper bell. But none of them would be seated until she had consented to join them. Winfield insisted upon laying a place for her beside him and gallantly held her chair until she was seated, which ceremony delighted her more and broadened the brogue in her conversation. She played the grand hostess with beaming pride in all her guests.

EVANGELIST WILL TALK ON PENTECOST

"A Pentecost and its Message" will be the theme of Evangelist Raun's sermon at the Opera House Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. In conjunction with millions of others around the world the local Church of Christ group will celebrate the 1900th anniversary of Pentecost and the birth of the Church of Christ. This will be the first Sunday morning service of the congregation and a large audience is expected.

The meetings during the week have been well attended and delegations from elsewhere have attended nearly every service. Friday night a large delegation from Waynesville was present.

Saturday night the evangelist will speak on the subject "The Five Kingdoms." This will be an illustrated lecture and the entire service beginning at 8 o'clock will last just one hour. The subject announced for Sunday night is a sermon lecture on the subject "Our Home—Its Friends and Its Foes." Elder Bateman of Bowersville will sing.

Despite the fact that Clara Phillips, once known as the "Tiger Woman" and the "Hammer Murderess," has spent seven years behind the bars in San Quentin, she has not given up thoughts of freedom. She expects to apply to Gov. C. C. Young for pardon within the next few days.

The Theater

Being a relative of a movie star may earn you a job as an extra in the films but reaching stardom yourself is another horse, a survey of the film families shows.

If you are superstitious you may believe that it is bad luck to have a relative famous in the movies, as the stars seem to be made regularly from the unknown and obscure white brothers, sisters and cousins of film notables remain in obscurity.

Clara Bow, for instance, has a cousin, Billy Bow, who is good-looking and earnest enough but who has never been able to achieve more than bits in Clara's own pictures.

Joan Crawford's brother, Hal Le Sueur, changed his name to Crawford and tried to crash the films, but so far without success. He is a personable, athletic type of youth but after many trials, he's still an extra.

Colleen Moore's brother, Cleve, possessing the same Irish smile that made his sister famous, had one real part in a picture and then retired to the obscurity of the extra ranks. There doesn't seem to be any reason for it, except that talent in a dramatic line is not at all hereditary nor does not spread itself out among various members of a family, no more than does a talent at embroidering or baking cakes.

The brother of the writer of this article is well-known to Xenia audiences as a home-talent performer of considerable talent. This talent is supplemented by an enthusiastic love for the stage, neither of which properties are claimed by this writer, who is shy, self-conscious and a ready victim for stage-fright when facing an audience. In the motion picture field, a person who sees a relative making big money in the films may attempt to find a niche there also, because of the attraction of fame and fortune, although not possessing any talents in that direction.

Where this talent does pass through a family, the recipient rises in the motion picture field, neither helped nor hindered by the relative who has gone before.

LUTHERANS WILL BE GIVEN NEW HYMNALS AT SUNDAY SERVICE

Working strenuously on a project which they included in the church program for May, members of the council of the First Lutheran Church completed a congregational cantata for new church hymnals recently.

The new hymnals called, "Common Service Book with Hymnal" is made up of 630 pages. The cover is of a stiff durable material colored dark green with gilt lettering.

One of the outstanding features of the new hymnal is that the words follow the musical score down through each page. This facilitates the reading of new or unfamiliar hymns. Various opening and closing services together with the appropriate grouping of hymns for the different church seasons and days are included in the edition.

One hundred books were purchased from the United Lutheran Publication House, Pittsburgh, Pa., by the local Lutheran Church. The name of each person, family, or organization presenting a book to the church is being placed on the inside of the front cover of each hymnal. The Misses Mary Maxwell and Pearl Davis recently completed that part of the recognition.

Members of the council who aided in the project include: H. K. Snyder, Lewis Urschell, John E. Kohl, W. P. Maxwell, John Vanderpool, C. F. Mellage, C. P. Yowler, Harry Fudge, Herbert Mellage and Ernest L. Blackburn.

J. F. Molitor headed a committee to solicit the church organizations. The group unanimously selected the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, pastor, to direct the cantata.

Several out of town ministers donated books to the local church. They are: Dr. W. P. Rilling, New Castle, Ind.; Dr. J. H. Culler and Rev. W. H. Naffziger, Springfield, both former pastors and Rev. Allen K. Trout, Indianapolis, Ind., a seminary room-mate of the Rev. Mr. Lebold.

The new hymnals will be used Sunday for the first time and will be dedicated in connection with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Pentecost.

Archer and Carey Maxwell will be the regular ushers to distribute the books to the people as they enter the church. This policy will be continued each Sunday by these young men.

TICKETS PLACED ON SALE FOR AMERICAN LEGION MOVIE HERE

Wilma Banky, one of the talking screen's greatest natural actresses will be seen in one of her latest triumphs, when Foody Post of the American Legion brings "A Lady to Love" to the Bijou Theater Thursday and Friday, June 19 and 20.

Departing from the usual custom of bringing a war picture to the screen as a medium of entertainment the legion post this year decided that "A Lady to Love" would be the feature attraction at the next theater party. Paul Turnbull and his moving picture committee today completed all details for the showing of "A Lady to Love" and the public has been extended a cordial invitation to attend on one of the two days of the show.

A number of tickets have been placed in the hands of Legion members of Xenia and vicinity to dispose of before the show date, but it was stressed by Turnbull today that it is not absolutely necessary to possess one of these tickets to attend.

"The box office will be open on the regular schedule at all showings of 'A Lady to Love,'" Turnbull announced, "and through the generosity of the Bijou management it will not be necessary for any advance in prices to be made. The regular price of admission will prevail for adults and children."

To tell the story of "A Lady to Love" would hardly be fair to those who are already planning to be among those present at one of the showings on the two days. Sufficient it is to say that it combines comedy with near tragedy, and with just enough romance thrown in to make any human person really appreciate the moonlight and roses that traditionally go with the month of June.

"A Lady to Love" is always a sure cure for the blues or for "what have you" is the tip passed out from Legion headquarters with the advice "don't miss it."

ing all royal prerogatives and duties for a morganatic alliance. In the meantime, the Roumanian cabinet, headed by Premier Jules Maniu, met today to decide on a course of definite action regarding Carol.

It is likely the cabinet may merely appoint Carol to the regency council. There is some possibility, however, that the body may lose no time in rescinding Carol's renunciation of the right of succession and immediately proclaim him king.

A few months ago it seemed impossible Carol ever could return to Roumania. Today, he was almost a national hero, with crowds in the streets cheering his return and even his most bitter political opponents accepting his return as a "fait accompli."

Carol's arrival at the Cotroceni air field last night was like a scene from a Viennese operetta. Two regiments of Roumanian troops were drawn up in a guard of honor to welcome him, and at their head stood Nicholas. As Carol stepped down from the French plane in which he made the trip from his "love chateau" at Belleme, near Paris, Nicholas walked briskly forward.

The two brothers threw their arms about each other in a warm embrace as the hand blared forth the Roumanian national anthem.

Carol then immediately journeyed to Bucharest by automobile, and before beginning the conferences with political leaders that will determine his future status, called at the bedside of his regal son in the Bucharest palace. For a full hour he sat by the bedside of his sleeping son, deeply touched by the first sight of his boy he has had since 1925 when he abandoned dynastic rights, home and family for the love of Magda Lupescu. She is in Switzerland, with nothing except substantial check as a memento of her five years of love with the heir to Roumania's throne.

VIENNA, June 7.—The dowager Queen Marie of Roumania arrived here today enroute to Bavaria to witness the Oberammergau Passion Play. She was informed by the Roumanian Charge d'Affaires Zaborovski of Prince Carol's return to Bucharest.

"As his mother," the queen said, "I should feel happy but I am afraid complications will arise. I pray God they won't."

The queen is expected to return to Bucharest within a few days.

EARL COLLINS WILL SUCCEED REILLY AS ALUMNI PRESIDENT

Dallas Marshall, president of the graduating class, gave the response.

Next on the program was a vocal duet by Mrs. William Anderson, Xenia, and Mrs. Mildred Foster, Yellow Springs, after which the main address was delivered by the Rev. William Wallace Iliffe, D. D., Chicago, Ill., who spoke on the subject, "What Is Wrong With Chicago."

Pointing out that a lot of good people as well as a lot of bad people live in Chicago, the Rev. Mr. Iliffe stressed the fact that this city is one of the most populous in the world and that the number of law violators there is no greater and in many instances the percentage is not as large as in other American cities.

The program continued with a vocal solo by Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, Cedarville, after which President W. R. McChesney gave the closing speech on the subject of a "Greater Cedarville College."

Plans for the campaign for a bigger and better college were presented and discussed with a view to giving impetus to the successful launching of a drive to raise $750,000 within the next five years for endowment and new buildings. The alumni association pledged its support to the campaign.

Features of the afternoon were reunions of practically all the classes from 1897 until the present. The calling of the class rolls was another innovation.

The gymnasium was attractively decorated for the occasion, a color scheme of orange and blue, the college colors, being carried out most effectively. Orange daisies and delphiniums were also used. The luncheon was served by the women's advisory board of the college.
